

NTIA/RUS Application Report

Analysis of Broadband Infrastructure Applications Organized by Proposed Geographic Coverage Area

Notes on the Report.

Overview

This report reflects USTelecom's analysis on applications submitted to NTIA and RUS for funding under BIP, BTOP or BIP/BTOP. It can be utilized as one of many tools for analyzing submitted applications. The information was derived from the broadbandusa.gov website, which should be referenced to confirm information contained in specific applications.

Geographic Organization of Applications

Under each regional state listing (e.g., Nebraska), the report breaks down projects into Last Mile (BTOP only), Last Mile Non-Remote Area (BIP), Last Mile Remote Area (BIP or BIP/BTOP) and Middle Mile (BIP, BTOP, or BIP/BTOP). Under each of these categories, an applicant's name and the title of its proposed project is listed for each application it has filed. In many instances, the project title includes the proposed coverage area.

In addition to listing individual states, many applications proposed coverage areas encompassing two or more states. In some instances, Applicants proposed full CONUS coverage. Instances where Applicants proposed coverage in more than one state are listed beginning on page 143 of the report. Finally, while the town and state columns reflect the headquarters location of the Applicant, not the proposed service area or areas, the information in the report is organized by service area.

The report only reflects applications submitted for Last Mile, Last Mile Non-Remote Area, Last Mile Remote Area and Middle Mile. The report does not reflect applications submitted for Public Computer Centers and Sustainable Broadband Adoption.
